GRAND ARMY BUGLE NOTES.

VETERANS COMPLAIN OF THE PLACE GIVEN THEM IN THE GRANT PARADE.

THE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY OF THE OLD GUARD ASSOCIATION OF THE 12TH REGIMENT-A RELIC OF THE CONFEDERATE

STATES TREASURY. No sufficient reason has been given as yet for the action of the committee of the Grant Monument parade in assigning the veterans of the war to the eend division and compelling them to trail behind the militia of this and other States. The feeling that pervades the Grand Army, the Loyal Legion and veteran organizations generally is that the Ulysses S. Grant, and made possible the great vic-tories he won, is the right of the line. The dissatisfaction with the present programme among the men of 1861 and their descendants is widespread and certainly not without foundation. To the pre-vailing custom of putting such detachments of regular troops as may be detailed for duty here on April 27 in the front of the marching column no ob-jection is raised, but why to soldiers who served their country in the most critical period of its history and risked their lives in scores of bloody engagements in company with the great General whose memory is to be the subject of henor on the occasion named should be given a position in rear of organizations that never saw anything more serious than a sham battle is seemlingly past comprehension. Those who have been looking up the history of previous derronstrations of this character on both sides of the Atlantic insist that it has always been usual to award to the veterans of the wars in which the hero was conspicuous the place of honor. In the public exhibitions of welcome to Lafayette on his second visit to America in this and other cities throughout the land his surviving comrades of the Revolutionary Army had the right of the line in the parades. When the body of the First Napoleon was consigned to its final resting-place, the Hötel des Invalides, in Paris, the same distinction was accorded in the dedication ceremonies to the men who had been with him in battle. A similar custom prevaled when the monument to the hero of Waterioo was dedicated in London, and the survivors of Wellington's armies had the post of henor. Recently, it is said, Berlin saw the same rule applied to the men who followed William I through the Franco-Frussian War, at the unveiling of his monument. It is therefore not surprising that the arrangements for a week from to-morrow are disappointing to most of the veterans of New-York. Some posts have decided that if they must tramp after 15,000 or 20,000 militiamen, and cannot reach the reviewing stand until everybody connected with the affair, including the spectators, is tired out, they will not take part in the parade at all. their country in the most critical period of its his-Arrangements for the reunion and golden anniversary of the Old Guard Association of the 12th Regiment, N. G. N. Y., on Wednesday evening at the Hotel Savay, Fifth-ave, and Fifty-ninth-st., are completed. The reception will begin at 4 p. m., and completed. The reception will begin at the pariors, banquet hall and company tables will be appropriately decorated with regimental, team and company trophies, flags, plants and flowers. The company tables will be designated by floral designs made for this occasion. Members will report to their company committee and be prepared to move to the banquet hall promptly. The Reception Committee is composed of Colonel Edward M. L. hlers, chairman; Major-General Daniel E. Sickles, Ehlers, chairman, Major-General Daniel B. Schemers, Brigadier-General Paul A. The officers of the association are: President, Major-General Daniel Butterfield; first vice-president, Colonel Henry Wines Ryder; treasurer, Brevet-Colonel Charles E. Sprague; secretary, Captain William W. Byrre; surgeon, Dr. D. B. St. John Roosa; assistant surgeon, Dr. H. Holbrook Curtis; chaplain, Brevet-Major Charles C. Savage. The various committees in charge of the reunion are requested to meet at the 12th Regiment Armory, Sixty-second-st, and Columbus-ave., this evening at 8 o'clock to make their final reports.

The Veteran Corps of the 69th Regiment at special meeting held last Tuesday evening decided to change the date of the annual dinner to celebrate the regiment's thirty-sixth anniversary from Friday to Saturday evening next. New tickets at Seench are ready for distribution. John Coonan, president of the corps, and Thomas J. o'Donoghue, secretary, have issued a circular saying that the committee appointed for the celebration has left nothing undone to make it highly honorable to the Veteran Corps, and will use their best efforts to make the occasion the most pleasurable of any heretofore undertaken. It is hoped that every member of the Veteran Corps will take an active and particular part in celebrating "the day on which the green flag was first borne side by side with the National colors in the service of the United States, April 25, 1881." The corps will parade on April 27 in honor of the dedication of the Grant Monument. 2 each are ready for distribution. John Coonan,

Commander-in-Chief Clarkson will arrive at the Silsey House on Monday morning, April 26, and All make that hotel his headquarters during the Monument. The Rhode Island members of the Commander's staff will report to him there Sixteen of them will take part in the parade. The following is an extract from a letter from J. C. Winans, senior aide-de-camp and chief of staff to Colonel George Edward Allen, of Providence: "Lear Comrade-Referring to General Orders No. 5, you will see that General Clarkson, Commander-inyou will see that General Clarkson, Commander-in-chief, will have charge of the Grand Army part of the parade in New-York, April 27, at the unveiling of Grant's Monument. He has directed me to no-tify as many of the aides-de-camp in the State of New-York, and points near New-York, as possible, that he would be pleased to have them present, but also informs me to advise them that the committee in charge of the exercises pertaining to this oc-cusion have no funds to bear the expenses. It would give General Clarkson great pleasure to have as many of his aids present as can con-veniently spare the time to participate in these exercises. I will arrive at the Gilsey House some time Sunday, April 25."

The Veteran Association of the 9th Regiment, N. G. N. Y., 53d New-York Volunteers, has received G. N. Y., 53d New-York Volunteers, has received an interesting relic, in the shape of an original draft for $29.10 on London drawn on the Secretary of the Confederate States Treasury, and signed by Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States. It requests that a warrant be drawn out of the appropriation for "necessaries and exigencies" in favor of Judah P. Benjamin, Secretary of State. The paper was secured by a member of the Bonton Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company while on a recent visit to Richmond, and presented by him to Captain Walter Scott, who, in turn, presented it to the Veteran Association. It has been framed handsomely, and will ornament the walls of the veterans' room in the 5th Regiment Armory.

Colonel Charles F. Homer, marshal in charge of pointed Captain John B. Hyde as his chief of staff, Captain Hyde was adjutant-general and chief of staff. Captain Hyde was adjutant-general and chief of staff to Marshal Von Shack in last year's Memorial Day parade, and did valuable service. He is thoroughly acquainted with all the details of the approaching parade. He was captain of the 5th Massachusetts Battery during the war, and was badly wounded in the Peninsular campaign. The Captain belongs to Lafayette Post No. 140.

The Vosburgh Veterans have adopted resolutions expressive of their sorrow at the death of Major expressive of their sorrow at the death of Major E. P. Doherty, past grand marshal, whose recent death and burial in Arlington Cemetery are still fresh in the memory of Grand Army comrades. The Major was one of the men who aided in the capture of Lincoln's assassin, J. Wilkes Booth, and his lectures on the subject were among the most popular delivered before the public schools of this city. Major Doherty was a member of the Vosburgh Veteran Association.

H. D. Morgan Post No. 207 has unanimously adopted a Grant memorial badge, with Confederate gray entwined, for use in the parade of April 27. After wearing them on that occasion the biue and gray badges will be laid aside and preserved as mementos of the dedication.

The monthly dinner of Good Government Club C was given at the City Club Saturday evening, and the course which the Good Government clubs should pursue in the coming campaign was discussed. The speakers agreed in advising that the Citizens Union should not amalgamate with any other faction or party for the November campaign, whether it was expected to make a successful fight or not. Several of the speakers declared that they were not sanguine of success this time, but they hoped the entering wedge would be driven in the coming fight. By agreement no candidates for office were mentioned, but Benjamin H. Gould, the first speaker, censured the Citizens' Union for deferring preliminary action looking toward the selection of candidates, practically committing themselves against an early campaign by their course. Dr. Henry Lyng Taylor presided, and the speakers included Benjamin E. Gould, Richard Watson Gilder, John Dewitt Warner, Henry White, secretary of the Garment Makers' Union; John Frankenheimer and the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Hooker T. Washington, the colored president of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, addressed the League for Political Education Saturday at No. 22 West Forty-fourth-st., his subject being "Present Political Conditions in the South." "I think the time has passed by," said Mr. Washington, "when Federal interference in the South can do any good. As a matter of fact, for the last dozen years our people have not tried to do much voting. They have been acquiring property and knowledge. I don't think our people object to an educational qualification for voting, but we want it to apply to ignorant white men as well as to ignorant blacks. When there was Federal interference the Republicans could not carry a single Southern State—now they have substantially carried five."

A general committee has been appointed and preparations are now being made for the celebration of the bi-centennial anniversary of the Old Dutch Reformed Church, of Sleepy Hollow, which occurs next October. The committee, of which the occurs next October. The committee, of which the Rey. Dr. John Knox Allen is chairman, is endeavoring to make the occasion a memorable one. Several men of National prominence have been asked to be present, but as they have not yet decided to attend, the committee does not care to mention their names. The building is said to be the oldest church structure in the State of New-York. It was built more than two hundred years ago, but the first call for a pastor was in 1807. It stands a little north of the Pocantico River, on the old Albany Post Road, surrounded by the graves of many of its former attendants. Its walls contain bricks that were imported from Holland by its founder, Frederick Philipse, while in the beifty hengs the little old bell which was also brought from Holland.

duce him to go until the journey's end. He was a yellow dog, more like a Scotch terrier than anything else, and originally belonged to a postofficer in California. His master once took the dog with him on one of his trips, and Owney was so fascinated with travel that he had spent his life on the cars ever since.

OWNEY, THE TRAVELLING DOG, KILLED.

SHOT AT CLEVELAND FOR ATTEMPTING TO BITE A POSTOFFICE CLERK.

From Cleveland, Ohio, comes the report that Owney, the famous travelling dog, known to almost every postal clerk in the United States, has been killed. Lately, so the report says, Owney has been growing vicious and spiteful. A postal clerk an-noyed him last Friday, and he started to bite, when he was shot by a policeman. At first the postoffice employes at Cleveland would not believe that it was Owney that had come to this ignominious end, but it was afterward conclusively proved that the

It is, however, quite impossible to convince the postal employes at New-York that Owney is no more. Last night one of the mail clerks declared that the report bears evidence of falsity in itself. "Why," he said, "Owney couldn't bite any one if wanted to. All his teeth went long ago, and when he came to New-York we had to feed him when he came to New-York we had to feed him on milk and soft food. Besides, he is not vicious at all. He makes friends with every one, and, anyway, there is no postoffice man in the country who would annoy him.

Owney was last in New-York about two months ago, when he appeared at the Postoffice, stayed half an hour for refreshments, and then immed on a mall wagon and continued his travels. He always carried a big bunch of metal cheeks, collected at the various points where he had stopped. He had visited almost every station in the country, and once went on a trip around the world, with his credentials, addressed to the postoffice clerks at each point along the route, written on a card and hung from his neck. Some time ago, it is said, the Mail Superintendent at Chicago issued orders for-bidding the clerks to carry the deg any more on from his neck. Some time ago, it is said, the Mail Superintendent at Chicago issued orders for-bidding the clerks to carry the dog any more on the cars, but, as they said at the Postoffice yesterday, there was no keeping him off them. As soon as he caught sight of a mail bag on a cart he jumped on, and no persuasion or blows would in-
